TWO BANDITS KILLED FRIDAY

Carranza Agent to Discuss Situation With Chief White in Mexico.

Washington, Oct. 22.—In addition to strengthening the military forces on the Mexican border by ordering the Twenty-eighth Infantry from Galveston to Harlingen, and holding another regiment in readiness, President Wilson conferred today with Attorney General Gregory, who is preparing to send department of justice agents to the scene.

A detachment from Troop I, Sixth Cavalry killed two supposed bandits late today who were crossing the Rio Grande at San Pedro ranch, twelve miles from Brownsville.

Mayor Brown of Brownsville, has called a meeting of representatives of border towns to be held Saturday to consider the situation. The meeting there Thursday resulted in telegrams being sent to Washington urging that the government take the necessary steps to cooperate with the Carranza government in suppressing outlaws.

Brownsville, Oct. 22.—An active campaign against the bandits on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande is promised by Jose Garza, the Carranza consul here. He said that General Eugenio Lopez had asked for more troops in order to handle the Mexican raids.

Garza said an investigation was under way of the reported appearance at Reynosa, Mexico, of Louie de la Rosa, the Texas bandit leader, a few hours after the raid on the Americans soldiers at Ojo de Agua. Lopez said he had confidence in his commander at Reynosa, and believed the bandit was there he got away before the commander heard of it.

Quiet was reported at all points last night.

ALLIES MUST ACT QUICK TO SAVE SERBIANS

MILITARY SITUATION OF SERBS ADMITTED CRITICAL

MOST DANGER FROM BULGARS

Movements of Bulgarians Evidently Result of Careful Planning.

London, Oct. 22.—The Serbians' military position is critical. Hammered by superior forces on two sides the armies are threatened with being crushed as none have been crushed during the war. The fact is admitted in England, France and Russia, and is reflected in Serbian official statements. The key to the escape, is the speed with which France and England can throw forces north from Saloniki in the hope of relieving pressure from the Austrians and Germans in the north and the Bulgarians in the east.

The Bulgarians are battling under the eyes of King Ferdinand and notwithstanding the presumably superior artillery of the Teutons it is the Bulgarian flank attack which seems the most menacing. The Teutons at a few places are twenty miles south of the Danube. In fact the ground gained averages only ten miles. The Bulgarians are displaying tremendous energy and are showing the careful planning made before a declaration of war. With twenty miles of the Nish-Saloniki railroad in their hands they have a strategic advantage had to overcome.

The movements of the entire troops from Saloniki are still unknown to the public. If any considerable force has been detailed to aid Serbia it must be heard from soon.

Sofia and Saloniki deny that the Serbians have taken Strumitza. This means that Bulgaria has not been invaded. It is reported that the Turkish cavalry is co-operating with the Bulgarians, and a great battle is raging at Velevo in Macedonia where the Serbs won a victory over the Turks in 1912. Unofficial reports say the Bulgarians have taken the town.

Greece still hesitates. England's offer of Cyprus and according to report, a considerable extension of Greek territory along the Aegean sea, and a colony in Asia has brought no outward change.

The Russians seem in the ascendancy along the most of the eastern front. Both Petrograd and Berlin emphasized the increasing danger. The Germans are nearing Olaf, twelve miles from Ega. They are also increasing their hold along the Dvina, eight miles away. The Russians assert that they repulsed German attacks on Olaf, but the Germans are bombarding the Riga-Dvinsk railway, interfering with the forwarding of reinforcements. The Christians reports Archangel closed by ice.

MELLEN TELLS MORE METHODS OF NEW HAVEN

EXPLAINS HOW NEW YORK CENTRAL WAS BROUGHT TO TERMS

FIRST EFFORTS UNSUCCESSFUL

Acquisition of Other Roads and Reduced Rates Forced Agreement.

New York, Oct. 22.—Official steps taken by the board of directors of the New Haven railroad in pursuance with the alleged conspiracy to control the transportation traffic of New England were placed before the jury in the trial of eleven directors here today. They were revealed in minutes of directors' meetings and letters written by Charles S. Mellen, which Mellen, now a government witness, identified.

The minutes showed that conferences with the New York Central railroad proved unsuccessful at first. Then the New Haven acquired other strategic roads in New England with the intention, the government contends, to force the New York Central to terms by reducing rates to the west. This Mellen explained, brought about the traffic agreement between the two roads.

New York, Oct. 22.—Charles S. Mellen continued his testimony concerning the consolidation of the New Haven at the trial of eleven of his former associates on charges of conspiracy to monopolize the railroad traffic. The government counsel led up to a revelation of the relations between the New Haven and the Boston and Maine.

Mellen had revealed that he was hired at a large salary by the New Haven as vice president because he caused trouble as general manager of the New York and New England railway and identified the agreement between the New Haven and New York Central to keep other New England roads out of New York city. He also described the rivalry leading up to the "corsair agreement" with the Boston and Maine.

Frank M. Swicker, a government counsel showed Mellen a copy of the "corsair agreement" dividing traffic between the New Haven and Boston and Maine on the Boston and Albany line. Mellen said this was not the real corsair agreement, which was made on Morgan's yacht. The real corsair agreement covered the division of traffic between the New Haven and New York Central at Springfield, Massachusetts, the agreement shown Monday at Morgan's house.

Witness identified the signature of Morgan and other directors who signed the agreement and identified the minutes of the New Haven directors meeting describing the successful negotiations in 1891 of the lease of the New York, Providence and Boston

PLANNING BUREAU OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE

Includes the Organization of Naval Districts and Islands.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Plans which the navy department officials are working on include the organization of the United States naval districts and insular possessions to aid the bureau of naval intelligence in gathering information of use to the department in war or peace. There are thirteen of these districts in addition to Honolulu, Panama, and Manila.

It is proposed to make this organization active in registering all American merchant vessels that might be used in war times including power boats and motor launches. Various radio stations are to be organized and used to report all wireless conversations of the coast. That will also make the proposed navy training camps to correspond to the district organization.

It is proposed, and will probably be presented to congress this winter that all pleasure power boats be required to carry registers for the Navy. Officers believe that an organization similar to the navy boat register reported as being used by the English could be formed. The boats have considerable value as aids to the coast defense submarine fleet.
